

New Website for Jeron Electronic Systems, Inc., USA Manufacturer of Provider® Nurse Call Systems

NILES, Ill. - Aug. 16, 2022 - PRLog -- Jeron Electronic Systems, Inc. announced today that they have redesigned the company's website to showcase their U.S. designed and manufactured healthcare and life safety communications solutions. The website is online and is at the same address: www.jeron.com.

The new website explains that Jeron, as a family run business and a U.S. manufacturer, expanded production capacity during the pandemic and ordered components to more than meet demand. As a result, Jeron has been able to supply their customers with the systems they need in a timely basis and with no supply chain issues or delays.

Jeron entered the healthcare market in the 1970s, when they offered only a tone-visual nurse call system. Since then, Jeron's entire line of audio-visual nurse call systems has evolved to incorporate the latest technology that exceeds basic nurse call expectations and moves into robust workflow applications and enterprise solutions. Provider Nurse Call Systems leverages the latest VoIP and SIP technologies to give faster alerting and delivers information throughout entire hospital campuses.

Area of Rescue Systems are also at the forefront of Jeron's products; providing emergency egress from stairwells in commercial settings. This type of two-way communications is becoming increasingly commonplace and Jeron has been producing it since the beginning.

"We are excited about our new website launch and the information it provides to our end-users, partners, and distributors. Jeron's website is easy to navigate to better understand our best-in-class Nurse Call and Life Safety offerings," said Laura McKeown, Marketing Communications Manager for Jeron. "We believe that this new site will allow our visitors to have a very informative experience about the products we make to increase efficiency for caregivers and first responders."
